A Story about the Sun and the Moon

Once upon a time, the Moon and the Sun shared the sky.

The sun was warm and bright.

The Moon envied the Sun.

The Moon wanted to become bright like the Sun.

One day, the Moon discovered why the Sun was so bright.

The Sun had a box of shining particles.

But, the Moon was sad and worried. He did not have any shining particles.

So, he went to borrow some from the Sun.

“Sun! Please, give me some of your shining particles.”

“No! I won’t!”

The Moon became angry and thought, “When the Sun goes to sleep, I’ll steal some from him.”

At the end of the day, the Sun fell asleep. The Moon took some of the shining particles.

When the Sun woke up, he realized that some of his particles were missing.

He was sure that the Moon had taken them.

The Sun got really angry.

He thought, “I’ll find the Moon and get them back!”

Then, he went to look for the Moon.

The Moon knew that the Sun was looking for him.

The Moon looked around the sky for the Sun.

Whenever the Moon isn’t sure where the Sun is, he exposes only a little of his face and looks around.

When the Sun is gone, he shows himself completely.

On the other hand, when the Sun shines, the Moon hides himself.

Tonight, look up into the night sky.

See if the Moon shows his face or not!
